Laboring to Avert Conflict.

Proofs are not wanting of the desire of both sides that everything possible should be done to avoid any chance of conflicts. The nationalists have abandoned their proposed parade at Londonderry, and Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster unionist leader, continues to voice the desire to do their utmost to avoid provocative acts.

The government announces that all intended movements of troops in Ireland have now been completed, but this may be a decision necessitated by the threatened resignations of the officers. Apparently no further actual resignations have been offered. Numerous questions of this and cognate matters are to be asked in parliament tomorrow and should bring forth re-liable information upon what at present is a somewhat obscure subject, owing to the heat of party feeling.

As the result of a meeting of the party leaders, Andrew Bonar Law will move the adjournment of the house outside the church and saluted the regulars, who returned the salute as of the whole situation.

Posible Resistance at La Pila.

Before leaving for the front, Gen-ral Villa said he doubted whether the federals would make further restistance until his assault on their main position takes place, although there were rumors that the enemy would make a show of resistance at Gomez Palacio, a suburb of Torreon. Gomez Palacio lies in the shadow of a great mountain known as Cerro La Pila, which the federals are reported to have fortified. If this proves true, the position must be taken, as the big guns have ample power to cover the three miles between the mountains and Torreon. It is said that the manning of La Pila would be a legitimate part of the defence of Torreon, although its comparative isolation would make supfrom other parts of the federal fenses virtually impossible.
